Stay on Top of FCC Application and License Status Changes

AppTracker offers real-time tracking of and reports on actions taken on applications filed at the FCC

AppTracker monitors FCC applications in real time, helping stations and law firms stay monitor developments on construction permits, license assignments, transfers of control and consummated agreements.

Do you or your clients need real-time tracking of FCC activities?

AppTracker eases the work required to monitor changes in application and license status by continuously scanning the FCC for specific applications. Searches can be done by application number, application contact email, call signs, facility ID, frequency, application service, radio market, application status and owner/licensee name.

When any activity is discovered, AppTracker sends a report. Receive timely, accurate and valuable data for your stations or clients.

With AppTracker, you can stay on top of all activities affecting applications of interest.
